Livingston County Community Celebrates Earth Day with First Annual “Clean-Up Livingston County”

As part of a countywide initiative, local groups and organizations rallied to clean up local streets, parks, and cemeteries in celebration of Earth Day, April 22, 2018. Livingston County called on local organizations and community members to participate in the first annual Livingston County Community Clean Up. Organizers were asked to register their events on the Livingston County website.

Many of the scheduled events took place over Earth Day weekend. Organizers planned events in numerous communities, including Avon, Conesus, Geneseo, Groveland, Hemlock, Leicester, Livonia and Springwater.

Approximately 175 bags of leaves, debris, and garbage were collected by over 150 community volunteers. Five parks, two cemeteries, and over three and a half miles of roadside areas were “cleaned up” throughout the county.

There are still more events scheduled to take place this month. A map and listing of events can be viewed on the Livingston County website at: <http://www.livingstoncounty.us/cleanuplivco>

Due to the great success of this first-time event, Livingston County looks forward to making the Community Clean-Up an annual event on Earth Day!
