WHEREAS, the week of April 4-10, 2022, is National Public Health Week, and the theme is "Public Health is Where You Are"; and

WHEREAS, since 1995, the American Public Health Association, through its sponsorship of National Public Health Week, has educated the public, policymakers and public health professionals about issues important to improving the public's health; and

WHEREAS, there is a significant difference in health status, such as obesity, poor mental health and drug use, among people living in rural areas compared with people living in urban areas, and this variance increases because rural residents are often more likely to face social determinants that negatively impact health, such as poverty, transportation barriers, and lack of economic opportunity; and

WHEREAS, a person's health status can differ drastically by zip code due to differences in the built environment, environmental quality, community context, access to healthy food and access to education and health care; and

WHEREAS, preventable risk factors such as physical inactivity, poor nutrition, tobacco use, and excessive alcohol use are leading causes of chronic disease. 6 in 10 U.S adults have a chronic disease and 4 in 10 have two or more; and chronic diseases cause 7 of every 10 deaths annually in the United States; and

WHEREAS, the COVID-19 pandemic has illuminated and exacerbated racial inequities and a growing number of local governments and public health leaders have declared racism a public health crisis; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, the Livingston County Board of Supervisors does hereby proclaim the week of April 4-10, 2022, as National Public Health Week in Livingston County and the residents of Livingston County are hereby asked to observe this week by helping families, friends, neighbors and co-workers to better understand the value of public health by supporting great opportunities to adopt preventive lifestyle habits in light of this year's theme, "Public Health is Where You Are."
